

If Winter Was a boy he would be a mischievous one, scaring animals away before winter forcing to hibernate.

If Winter Was a boy he would be a fast one, zooming around the world leaving his shaggy blue waist sack behind everywhere. He would shake the clouds causing it to snow.

If Winter Was a boy he would be a cute one with his slick back hair and his transparent skin and his painted Elf-like shoes smelling like sweet hot cocoa. Sitting by the fire warming your frostbite fingers.

-By Henri Northcote

